

Ejaculation Abstinence Time and Assisted Reproductive Technology Outcomes

NCT06410417

Status	RECRUITING
Phase	Not Applicable
Sponsor	The First Hospital of Jilin University
Enrollment	500 participants

Key Eligibility Criteria

Inclusion (3)

- The couple is between 20 and 45 years old, and the woman's body mass index is greater than 18.5 and less than 30kg/m².
- Meet the indications of assisted reproductive technology, agree to use assisted reproductive technology to assist pregnancy and have entered the process.
- The male has normal ejaculation function and plans to provide a semen sample by masturbation method on the day of egg retrieval.

Exclusion (5)

- Couples with serious infections and major physical diseases, such as HIV.
- The use of testicular sperm for intracytoplasmic sperm injection, such as the azoospermia.
- The use of frozen sperm for assisted reproductive technology.
- Endometriosis, repeated implantation failure, etc.
- There are clear factors affecting semen parameters within 3 months before sperm extraction, including high temperature, contact with chemicals radiation or drugs that affect sperm, etc.; Previous orchitis/epididymitis, cryptorchidism, receiving radiotherapy and chemotherapy treatment

Locations (1 total)

the first hospital of Jilin University, Changchun, Jilin, China