

Study of the Use of Methoxyflurane vs Placebo in the Management of Pain in Oral and Dental Emergencies in Adults: METODO (METHOxyflurane in ODOntology)

NCT06495372

---

Status	RECRUITING
Phase	Phase 3
Sponsor	University Hospital, Brest
Enrollment	192 participants

Key Eligibility Criteria

---

Inclusion (4)

- Adult patient (> 18 years)
- Conscious patient consulting an oral emergency department with pain assessed as moderate to severe NRS greater than or equal to 4
- Patient has social security affiliation or who beneficiary of such social security
- Patients who have given informed consent

Exclusion (9)

- Patients with a history of allergy to methoxyflurane or any of the components of Pentrox (take into account family history of severe allergic reactions)
- Patients with a history of malignant hyperthermia (known or genetic predisposition)
- Patients with hepatic impairment after use of methoxyflurane or halogenated hydrocarbon anesthesia
- Patients with severe renal Failure
- Patients with altered level of consciousness, whatever the cause: head trauma, drug or alcohol abuse
- ... and 4 more (see full listing online)

Locations (1 total)

---

CHU Brest, Brest, France