

Effectiveness of Connective Tissue Graft With and Without Leukocyte Platelet Rich Fibrin on Peri-implant Soft Tissue Thickness Around Delayed Implants in Patients With Thin Gingival Phenotype: A Randomized Controlled Clinical Trial

NCT07368621

Status	RECRUITING
Phase	Not Applicable
Sponsor	British University In Egypt
Enrollment	38 participants

Key Eligibility Criteria

Inclusion (2)

- 1. Patients between 18-60 years. 2. With thin gingival phenotype with a peri-implant mucosal thickness of less than 2mm. 3. With single missing tooth in the incisor, canine and premolar area. With the presence of two natural adjacent teeth and to not have a bone augmentation procedure before or during the dental implant.
- 4. Patient consent approval and signing 5. Medically free patients 6. Patients with good oral hygiene 7. Patients free from untreated periodontal disease

Exclusion (1)

- 1. Smokers 2. Psychological problem 3. Pregnancy 4. Systemic disease 5. Poor oral hygiene 6. Patients who previously received radiation therapy of the jaws 7. Patients taking medications that affect healing.

Locations (1 total)

The British University in Egypt, Cairo, Cairo Governorate, Egypt