

Investigating the Association Between Diagnostic and Therapeutic Management Models and Prognosis of Intrauterine Adhesions Based on a Large-Scale Prospective Cohort Study

NCT07421908

---

|                   |  |
|-------------------|--|
| Status     | RECRUITING   |
| Phase      | Not Applicable   |
| Sponsor    | The Third Xiangya Hospital of Central South University |
| Enrollment | 5,000 participants                                     |

Key Eligibility Criteria

---

Inclusion (1)

- Patients with intrauterine adhesions diagnosed and treated in our hospital and the sub-central units of this project: aged 18-45 years old; The collection began after the ethical review was passed. A total of 5,000 cases were collected, and 2,000 cases were collected in this center.

Exclusion (1)

- Abnormal ovarian function, male infertility, inability to cooperate with diagnosis and treatment and follow-up visits

Locations (1 total)

---

The Third Xiangya Hospital of Central South University, Changsha, Hunan, China